Pioneer Justice.

[From the Argonaut.]

To give an idea how justice was administered in Tuolumne in the good old days of '50, we print the following extracts from Justice Barry's docket, preserving his orthography, and assuring our readers that it is a literal transcript:

"No. 101

Is a case where one James Knowlton brings suit against Jose — for feloniously and surreptitiously taking, stealing, and robbing the said James Knowlton, late of San Francisco, one Buckskin purse or sack of gold-dust of the value of 4,000 dollars.

"After hearing the evidence produced in the case, I demand of Jose whether he was going to plead guilty or not. Jose answered me thus: 'You find out.' For which insolent and abominable contempt of court I find him 3 ounces, and adjudged him guilty. I sentenced him to restore the gold-dust to the court, and to receive, well laid on 40 lashes on his bare back, and to pay the cost of the court.

"Cost of court, 5 ounces which Jose not having 1 rooled that James Knowlton should pay. Deducting the amount and returned the balance to the owner. James Knowlton.

"July 9, 1851. Rec'd C. Barry, J. P. U. H. Brown, constable."

"No. 516.

"This is a suit for mule stealing, in which Jesus Ramirez is indicted for stealing a black mare mule branded O, with a 5 in it, from Sheriff Wood. George swears the mule in question is his, and I believe so to on hearing the case. I found Jesus Ramirez guilty of feloniously, and against the law of made and provided, and the dignity of the people of Sonora steal the aforesaid mare mule. Sentenced him to pay the cost — $10 — and fined him $100 more as a terror to all evil doers. Jesus Ramirez not having any munny to pay with, I rooled that George Work should pay the cost of court, as well as the fine, and in default of payment that the said one mare mule be sold by the constable, John Luvy, or other officer of the court, to meet the expenses of the costs of the court, as also the payment of the aforesaid.

"R. C. Barry, J. P.

"Sonora, Aug. 21, 1851."

"John Luvy, Constable."

"N. B. — Barber, the lawyer for George Work, insolently told me there was no law for me to rool so. I told him I didn't care a damn for his book law; that I was the law myself. He continued to jaw back. I told him to shut up, but he wouldn't. I fined him $50, and committed him to goal for 5 days for contempt of court, in bringing my roolings and dissions into disreputableness, and as a warning to unruly persons not to contradict the court."

"No. 606.

"This was a suit between two gamblers. E. Kroke, the gambler who sued Sam Heed the gambler, to recover 3,000 delers won at cards. After much swarin one way and another, the lawyers, H. P. Barber and Leander Quint, argoed the case which after a long time they got through with. I decided that Barber was right, whereupon Quint said please, your honor, I never can get justice in your court—putting out his finger and thumb. I told him the likes of him in my country often lost their fingers stealing corn or chickens, and that if I had anything to say he should never have justice here. I ordered him to hold his tongue and shet up. When he went out of the court he began to grumble again. I ordered John Luvy, the constable, to arrest him and bring him into court before me—which he done—then I fined him $25 for contempt of court.

"Cost of court, $100—which he paid. R. C. BARRY, Justice Peace.

The Cactus Palm—A Reminiscence of Algeria.

The San Francisco correspondent of the Baltimore Sun, writing about the cactus palm of the Northern Desert and its utilization for the manufacture of paper, says:

The cactus palm, now being converted into paper, reminds us of the dwarf palm of Algeria. The richest land of that French Colony is a desert, because it is covered with the dwarf palm, whose top is eighteen inches and its root twenty-four inches. These barrens appear to be irremediable, for by no known process have the French been able to clear the land at even three times its value for cultivation. This scrubby covering extends a day's journey along the base of the upland that borders the northern end of the Great Desert of the Sahara. The mountain above it is full of rich hematite iron ore, much needed, but useless for want of fuel. In 1862, being in Paris with Zennus Barnum, of Baltimore, whose active spirit was spoiling for speculation, we noticed a description of the Algerian embarrassment, and the call of the government for propositions to clear the land. Samples of the plant were shown, and ample colored drawings, with specimens of the soil and certificates of its value when cleared, cost of labor, etc. Mr. Barnum's practical mind contrived a machine that would whip out the dwarfs as fast as you could count them; for the root, having no ramifications, was easy of extraction by appropriate machinery. A month was consumed in dispelling the suspicion that American means filibuster. The anxiety of the Government could not be concealed when our business-like confidence gave an idea that American genius could really do what it proposed. It was the Frenchmen's own offer to give the land and ironstone. It was our plan to char the wood, which we proved peculiarly suited to furnaces; to erect iron works and clear the land four-fold faster than contract requirement; there being thousands of acres much easier cleared than others. French capital was freely offered us, conditioned on a successful showing of ten acres cleared, so that sales of land could cover cost of clearing.

The bargain was put in preliminary writing, and the golden ingots began to enrich our dreams. One morning a wonderfully bedizened officer with an equestrian air, and a private carriage, arrived at Barnum's private lodgings and left a message, which the concierge translated, requesting our attendance at the ministry. There the following dialogue occurred: "Of course messieurs understood that Algeria was under military government."

"No, monsieur, that does not concern us. We do our business our own way. We don't have anything to do with the military." "By no means, messieurs. The military give supervision and direction in all cases," etc. Of course we declined, and ten millions vanished into thin air.

Motions and Resolutions—Beck on Pack-ingham—The Special Order.

Last evening the house was called to order and a quorum was found to be present. The members were all impatient to get at the special order on Hoole's appropriation of $500,000 for the Truckee river. Rumors were numerous, however, of defection among the friends of the bill, and the absence of Hoole, the author, confirmed these rumors. Under the head of resolutions Cossitt, of Arkansas, offered the following: "Resolved, That we approve of the Civil Service Policy of President Hayes"—referred to Committee on Federal Relations.

The same gentleman also offered the following: "Resolved, That the standing army of the United States should be increased in number to fifty thousand men."

Sheemaker introduced the following: "Resolved, That the battle of New Orleans was not fought upon the most approved principles of warfare." Immediately upon the reading of this resolution Speaker Beck, (colored) from Iowa, hurriedly called Senator Bowman to the Chair, and girding up his oratorical loins, took the field. We report his remarks verbatim—from memory:

"I little thought, Mr. Speaker, that I should be called upon to shed light upon this subject. I never dreamed that eloquence was needed in defense of Jackson, the great Jackson, immortal Jackson, General Jackson, Zachary Jackson, who said, 'To the victor belongs the spoils.' I had believed that in the galaxy of veteran warriors that name was secure from impeachment, and yet I have found upon this floor a man who is mean enough to defend Pack-ingham, the red-coated Andrew Pack-ingham who never did anything but get whipped. I ask right here if Zachary didn't overcome him like a Summer cloud, and if such, what matter whether he used the improved principles or struck him with a club? Now, let us look into this matter. Conkling declares that he will not compromise on any terms, except the removal of Evans, and Hayes stands firm—but then, there's the Indian Policy; as Pope says, 'Lo! the poor Indian whose untutored mind,' and knowing as I do that Captain Johnson killed Tecumseh, it cannot be surprising that I am agitated. In anticipation of this assault I have prepared a poem which I will now read—"

The Speaker here informed the Senator of the fleetness of time, and by a unanimous vote the resolutions above were appointed the special order for Tuesday evening, January 8th, 1878. Further consideration of the appropriation bill was postponed, owing to the absence of Hoole.

The following bills were introduced: By Senator Hatch, "An Act to incorporate the town of Reno." By Williams of New York, "An Act granting franchise to the Reno and Virginia Railroad Co." and "An Act appropriating $200,000 for completing the Reno State Prison." By Mann, of Utah, "An Act limiting the eligibility of persons to the office of President of the United States to one term, and prohibiting certain persons from holding said office." Section 2 of this act forbids anyone from Wisconsin or Florida from holding the office of President. This is presumed to be a thrust at Powning, of Wisconsin, who is known to have designs upon the office.

House adjourned until Tuesday, January 8th, 1878.

RENO TRACKS.—Mr. Allen, in one of his lectures, said that when a hunter showed him a bear's track he was willing to take his word for the grizzly. In the same way, when anyone showed him the devil's track he was not extremely anxious for a personal interview with his Satanic majesty. Now, said he, in conclusion, I talk to you about the devil because I have seen his tracks all over your town, on every street, and if you want more proof that he is near, you have only to go with me and examine the tracks carefully.

The Footlight tells of an old Italian who attempted suicide near Reno lately, and ascribes the cause for the act to the difference between Comstock and Reno milk. Another proof that when a man commits suicide he is a cowardly calf.

The Musicals To-Night

This evening the advent term of Bishop Whitaker's School for Girls, will close with the fifth rehearsal in the department of music. The pupils are all looking forward to the holidays and teachers also are no doubt enjoying the prospect of rest. Miss Quaiiffe head of the musical department, will visit San Francisco and Oakland, while the remaining teachers will spend the vacation in Reno, deferring pleasure trips until the longer vacation in Summer. We present below the programme for to-night's rehearsal. We do so without permission, and with the purpose of showing the progress which has been made in this department. We know that each branch of study has received equal attention, and hence the programme given is a measure of the honest work done, and the degree of success achieved at the Seminary. Those who have received cards of invitation will read the subjoined with especial pleasure.

An Exciting Adventure

How the Fish Stealers of Pyramid Lake Went for United States Marshal Ash and His Deputies—A Run through a Shower of Rifle Balls.

The Enterprise has the following sensational item, which we hardly understand.

Last Thursday United States Marshal Gus Ash went down to Pyramid Lake to notify parties in that region who are engaged in fishing on the Indian reservation that they must at once desist from so doing. He arrived at the Indian agency with two deputies and there ascertained the whereabouts of the parties engaged in stealing the fish of the Indians.

Marshal Ash, his two deputies and the Indian Agent left the Agency in a rockaway, and finally after a tedious trip, reached the camp of the fish stealers. They were notified to cease their illegal operations, and the party started on their return to the Agency.

So rough was the road that darkness overtook the Marshal and party long before they reached the Agency. In one place was a bridge over a broad and deep slough putting into the lake, and when they came to this their horses suddenly halted and drew back. Getting out of their carriage, they found the covering of the bridge torn up.

Having mended the bridge and crossed it they thought their troubles were over, but they were only about to begin.

Soon after crossing the bridge their road led through a canyon bordered with willows. Suddenly a lively fire was opened upon the Marshal and his friends in the rockaway by parties concealed in the willows. The concealed enemy appeared to be armed with breech-loading rifles, as the firing was very rapid.

With the first shot the horses were put on a run, and as the bullets whistled about them those in the rockaway screened themselves as well as they were able behind the seats of the vehicle.

Some fifty shots are said to have been fired in all, none of which took effect, though a ball is said to have passed between the rim of the Marshal's hat and ear, cutting through a lock of hair.

POSTPONED.—Owing to the excessive supply of lecturers now on sale in Reno, Professor Gunning has been induced to postpone his course of lectures until Tuesday next, when it will be taken up as originally announced. The lecture announced was not given last evening, and instead the Professor gave some of his theories in regard to the formation of the Comstock. This was only in the way of conversation, but revealed clearly the strength of these theories and the Professor's ability as a lecturer. We hope that the course will be well attended next week.

TEMPERANCE.—The crusade still prospers. G. S. Allen spoke last night to a large audience in the Baptist church, and produced a favorable impression. His stories were well received and the moral was not unheeded as proven by the number of persons who took the ribbon, and subscribed. To-night the same gentleman lectures again and for the last time, we believe. He presents the best side of the temperance cause in an inviting way, and makes friends and converts by so doing.

PROCLAMATION.—Jacob Prescott, an old friend of the ladies who dress well and like nice presents on Christmas, has something to say to day which is very interesting. Having wisely deferred his purchases, Mr. Prescott now offers his patrons the benefit of the bargains which he was enabled to secure. The ladies should visit him, and inform their male relatives the particular article in his stock which would be most acceptable.

TRUCKEE MUTTON.—The largest and finest sheep ever seen in Virginia attracted a crowd of mutton lovers at the Bull Head market, Monday. The Chronicle says: The animal weighed about 300 pounds as he stood. His back was as broad as a billiard table—a small billiard table, of course—and he seemed quite indifferent when Mr. Ingraham announced that he would be segregated into mutton chops for Christmas. He was raised on the Truckee by Crane & Howell.

SOMETHING NEW.—A stranger came into this office to-day and said he wanted to show us something. We assented, and drawing from his pocket a case he displayed a number of rare trinkets, and among the rest some fine jewelry. "Now," said he, "that is the finest collection I ever bought, and it cost a mere nothing. I got it at I. Fredrick's jewelry store."

A MIRACULOUS ESCAPE FROM DEATH.—Salt Lake, Dec. 15th.—Last September a man named Elias Flygare left Salt Lake to work in the Bingham mines, but on his way was met by two men who informed him that no work could be had, and induced him to accompany them to Tintic, another mining district. On the way he became footsore, and sitting down, fell asleep, when his companions hit him on the head, rifled his pockets, buried him in a ditch, covering him with brush. Shortly after a body was found, and the Tribune's Tintic correspondent published the particulars of its burial and the finding of a note from Flygare to his family in Salt Lake. Yesterday the supposed murdered man arrived in the city and gave his mourning family an agreeable surprise. His story is related to the Tribune reporter this morning, is that he was knocked down and robbed by his companions, who, thinking they had killed him, buried him in a ravine, where he remained unconscious for nearly two days, as near as he could judge. After coming to his senses, he crawled to a sheep ranch in Skull valley, where he was taken care of, and, when recovered, given employment by the rancher. He had written to his family, but the letters had miscarried, and they mourned him as dead. The question now is: Who was the dead man buried by the Tintic miners?

The Ward Reflex of Saturday, reports a rich strike southeast of Osceola; it is gold quartz.
